The 20-Year Society
Honoring employees’ 20 years of service to Carolina
On Thursday evening, April 22, the Office of Human Resources hosted the 32nd annual Service Appreciation Banquet at the Carolina Inn. In 1977, the University created the Carolina 20-Year Society to recognize the service of staff employees to the University and the State of North Carolina. Since 1992, EPA non-faculty employees also have been included in this recognition process. Employees are inducted into the prestigious Carolina 20-Year Society each year at this event. Employees and their guests, along with special guests from the Chancellor’s Cabinet, were in attendance to celebrate this significant achievement as 140 employees were inducted into the Carolina 20-Year Society this year. The evening was a memorable one, as Chancellor Holden Thorp gave a heartfelt thank-you to all in attendance for making Carolina the remarkable place it is. Karen Shelton, coach of the women’s field hockey team, was the guest speaker. Shelton stated, “We all band together to make this truly a University of the people.” Thorp noted, “You truly are the team that carries the tradition on through the generations. ‘You continue the Carolina Way.’”
